

3 History · finished goals archive + daily activity log

3a History & archive. Every finished goal with its outcome, how fast you hit it, days-hit rate and the 1b reflection snippet — plus a reverse-chronological log of completed tasks (the “what I did each day” track), with the emote you left.

HISTORY · GOALS ARCHIVE

ACTIVITY LOG · WHAT I DID EACH DAY

Try next: “open the full recap for a finished goal” · “add a calendar / heatmap view of the activity log” · “let me filter history by year or goal” · “show a ‘this month’ summary card”

2 Auth flow · “Cairn” · sign in / create account · email verification

2a Email + password auth. Branded “Cairn” wordmark so the app is felt from the first screen. Live — toggle Sign in / Create account, show/hide the password, and type the 6-digit code (auto-advances). Re-skins to whichever direction you pick.

Try next: “re-skin the auth to match 1c Trailhead” · “add Google / Apple sign-in too” · “add a forgot-password reset screen” · “show the desktop split-screen login”

GOAL TRACKER · ROUND 1 · 3 DIRECTIONS

Track the goal, the pace, and how each day actually felt.

Warm, calm, minimal — shown as mobile (adapts to a wide two-pane layout on desktop). Every goal carries a single progress track with a "should be here" marker so projected vs actual reads at a glance. Priority is drag-to-reorder. Emotes are optional per task. The Goal detail screens are live — tick a task to feel the check-off, then react with an emote.

1 Three directions · Dashboard + Goal detail (1b also has Create & Reflection)

1a Quiet Ledger. Editorial & restrained — Spectral serif, one clay accent, hairline rules. Reads like a considered notebook, not an app.

1b Soft Cards. Warmest & friendliest — Bricolage display, tinted cards, circular progress rings, status by colour. Full flow: Dashboard → Detail → Create → Reflection.

1c Trailhead. A journey metaphor — each goal is a path, days are stops along it. Space Grotesk + mono, a pace flag that sits ahead of or behind "today". More novel, still calm.
